TV Content Reporting Provides Buyers with TV-Like Buying Opportunities and Brings Greater Transparency to CTV

NEW YORK & LOS ANGELES--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Dec. 3, 2020-- Magnite (NASDAQ: MGNI), the world's largest independent omnichannel sell-side advertising platform, today announced that Crackle Plus, a Chicken Soup for the Soul Entertainment (NASDAQ: CSSE) company and the operator of streaming advertising-supported video-on-demand (AVOD) services Crackle and Popcornflix, is leveraging Magnite's TV content reporting product to share content metadata, including show- and episode-level data, with advertisers.

Through Magnite's platform, Crackle Plus can better understand the bidding and buying behavior based on supply attributes such as duration and content categories, in real time. Magnite's platform gives publishers like Crackle Plus complete control over the content metadata they provide on a deal-by-deal basis to drive higher value for their top performing supply.

Magnite's TV content capabilities provide buyers with the ability to measure delivery by show, genre and TV rating, giving them more buying insights, similar to how linear TV is transacted. This product further validates the premium nature of Crackle Plus' programming and delivers on the increasing value and promise that CTV offers brand marketers.

"Magnite has been one of our most valued ad tech partners at Crackle Plus. Its technology and real-time reporting continue to help us deliver rich insights for our advertising partners," said Tim Ware, Executive Director of Programmatic at Crackle Plus. "Crackle Plus continues to lead the AVOD streaming service providers in delivering unique reach across its top original and exclusive programming, blockbuster movies and classic TV shows. Enabling brands to buy and report on the premium environments they've paid for reinforces our value proposition. Our demand partners are asking for this kind of transparency as they invest more in premium CTV content."

"With access to these granular insights, we're able to help publishers like Crackle Plus more effectively package and price their inventory," said Adam Lowy, Head of North American Demand Sales and Strategy at Magnite. "As more publishers share this kind of data, the advertising community benefits from greater transparency and advertisers can have more confidence in their buys."
